

Matt is developing global leaders and inspiring a culture of learning and innovation at Johnson & Johnson. Strategic moves across functions and regions cultivated his unique and diverse experience, cultivating a deeper ability to lead at the Enterprise level.

HUMAN RESOURCES 2012-PRESENT

Global leadership program designer, accelerating growth of 250+ Senior Leaders at the Enterprise level.

Developed and delivered innovation training curriculum to 1,000+ associates, achieving a +90 net promoter score.

Developed innovation support materials for self-service, instructor-led, and digital-based skill building.

Developed and executed a community platform for 12,000+ J&J employees.

MARKETING 2008-2011

Created $30MM in year 1 sales by developing and launching 9 new products.

Moved Clean & Clear brand to #2 for the first time in history and broke 10 sales records.

Generated 1B digital brand impressions in 1 day through a partnership with YouTube.

Created the 1st business relationship management group within Marketing and IT, and implemented the new operating model.

IT 1999-2007

Proven track record of developing and executing digital programs that drive sales and break previous success metrics.

Created $50MM in possible 1 year business growth by developing 4 internet-connected skincare medical devices.

Formed a Sales Technology Center of Excellence and reduced sales systems by 50%

Led $11MM distribution center and warehouse implementation project

LEARNING MINDSET & AGILITY

Matt is known for being an extremely quick learner. By strategically moving across functions and regions, Matt is learning the ins and outs of the Enterprise, the people, inter-function connections, and the talent pipeline. In addition to internal development opportunities and experiences, Matt expands his thinking and brings big-picture learnings back to his organization through external continuing education courses—including Stanford and Disney.