HUMAN RESOURCES

GLOBAL EXPERIENCE

Since 1999, Matt has been intentionally developing significant global experience. This includes leading, working, and partnering with global teams, projects, and/or Companies. It also includes living in and / or immersing himself in strategic locations around the world. Over those experiences, he has developed a heightened ability to lead with cultural intelligence and empathy across diverse cultures and international colleagues. In his current role as Head of Global Talent Management's Center for Leadership & Learning, his team's work touches every level of the organization in multiple countries through strategic learning and talent initiatives that drive business impact.
